What Is Xmas to a Boy--

Without a New Suit, Overcoat or Mackinaw?

There always seems to be somethin' wrong when Christmas comes 'round and "Son" hasn't a new wardrobe. He seems "all out o' sorts," to use a popular expression. Haven't you ever noticed it?

But, honest, now—weren't you the same, 'way years ago? Didn't you like to have all that was newest and best in clothing for the Christmas dress-up?

Why not bring in "that boy of yours" tomorrow? Let him try on our new model suits, overcoats, and mackinaws—it's no trouble to us to show you them—and you'll be surprised to find that they are priced as low as $4.95. Others up to $7.50.

An Extraordinary Opportunity Is This Xmas Sale of Serge Afternoon Dresses at $25

Ordinarily Sold at $42.50 and $69.

"That sounds like an exaggeration! How can you possibly sell dresses that were made to retail up to $69 at such a price as $25?" The question was put flatly up to our Women's Garment chief, who returned from New York recently with these dresses, and here's his explanation—

"A large New York designer of women's apparel closed out an entire lot of showroom samples in order to secure more space for new models coming in."

The models are original and adaptations of imported dresses, for afternoon and general street wear, where fine costumes are in demand. As these are samples the sizes are 36 to 38—and nearly every woman can be fitted.

Just a few this side of 75 in the lot. Also some Silk Dresses.

Only the finest of serges is used. There's a wonderful variety of the season's prettiest fashions; long, slender effects, in many variations; normal waist-line models, Russian tunic and blouse styles, some dresses entirely of serge, others combined with plain and plaid silk, Georgette and lace. Many are handsomely embroidered in gold, silver, silk and brilliant beads, others are trimmed with banding of fur. Color a very desirable shade of navy blue. In this lot are two very fine broadcloths in navy blue and purple, prices of which were $60, $85 and $89.

We have also included with the above lot a number of silk dresses from our own regular stock that have been priced up to $38.75.
